Executive Master of Business Administration

Programme Specification

Course Rationale

Global College's Executive MBA degree program is designed to deliver a broad understanding of general management and administration, just as traditional MBA programs do. However, traditional MBA curricula are designed for early-career professionals, while Executive MBA programs target mid and later-career professionals with significant professional experience at the managerial level and above. Accordingly, EMBA curricula bypass content that a seasoned professional should already know. EMBA coursework tends to be more concentrated and more advanced than traditional MBA content. Instructors expect EMBA students to contribute substantially to course discussions, drawing upon the knowledge and skills they've acquired in business to guide and drive instruction.

The objective of our EMBA program is to develop mid-career professionals and emerging managers into complete executives capable of applying advanced leadership practice in the global marketplace. Program content is designed to transform business professionals into C-Suite executives, competent leaders, and an asset to any company for which they work.

Entry Requirements

Prior to entering the Master's programme of study with the College, applicants should normally possess:

- A good degree from a recognised university institution or equivalent recognised higher education institution. Whilst a degree in a subject broadly related to Business and Management is advantageous, this is not essential. The application process will carefully consider the suitability of the student to successfully complete the programme based on the information provided. Where appropriate, a discussion will be held with the applicant to determine their suitability, or
- A graduate level professional qualification from a recognised University institution or appropriate comparable recognised higher education institution. A graduate level professional qualification in a subject broadly related to Business and Management is advantageous. The application process will carefully consider the suitability of the student to successfully complete the programme based on the information provided. Where appropriate, a discussion will be held with the applicant to determine their suitability, or
- Where appropriate, a pre-master's orientation programme approved by Global College Malta.

Students whose first Language is not English and who have not previously been exposed to spoken and written English at a reasonably advanced level will normally be required to demonstrate an English competence of IELTS 6.0 or equivalent. The College may undertake a video interview with the prospective student to better understand their English proficiency and, where appropriate, may also require a Medium of Instruction certificate from the student's previous educational institution. The English language proficiency requirement may be waived if the student is a native speaker of English and they have completed their secondary education in a country where English is the official language or English was the language of instruction where they graduated.

Applicants are strongly encouraged to have two or more years' relevant work experience, although this need not necessarily be continuous, and may have been undertaken on a voluntary or unpaid basis

Course Learning Outcome

- Having close regard to the level descriptors of Level 7 of the Malta Qualifications Framework, the overall educational aims of the College's Masters programme are as follows:
- To provide a programme of study that will enable students to fulfill their intellectual, professional, and human potential through a transformative educational experience that combines rigorous academic study with immersive exposure to contemporary practice in business and management;
- To develop international professionals and leaders with the vision, knowledge, creativity, skills, ethics, and entrepreneurial ability necessary to take an integrated, critically aware, dynamic, and strategic view of organizations and to make a valuable contribution to both organizations and society;
- To develop analytical abilities, using concepts derived from a wide range of academic disciplines, directed towards business problem solving and innovation in organizational contexts;
- To instil a professional mindset characterized by a strong work ethic, desire to excel, creative thinking, social awareness, and global outlook;
- To provide students with managerial competence in a variety of applied skills; and,
- To develop business acumen, personal and professional skills, and autonomous learning ability to enhance students' employability on graduation and their life-long career prospects.

Course Teaching and Learning

The Global College Malta Master's programme of study uses a range of teaching methods to suit different learning styles. Typically, the programme of study is delivered through a combination of modern face-to-face lectures, webinars, seminars and discussion forums, tutorials, group work, case studies, guest speakers, organisational visits and independent study.

Delivery of the College's Master's programme has close regard to the needs of learners. Accordingly, much of the learning is either delivered at times to suit those learners who may have daytime employment or childcare commitments or made available in a supported teaching format. At all times, the views and needs of students are considered. By means of example, theoretical concepts might typically be delivered to students in modern face-to-face lecture formats which may then be further developed through subsequent interactions based on small group seminars, group case study analysis, and digital discussions. Modern face-to-face and interactive learning sessions encourage students to critically examine key elements of business and management. In addition to attendance at formal learning sessions, students are expected to undertake independent self-study in order to support their individual learning journeys.

To assist with independent self-study and group work the College provides access to a large number of physical and electronic learning resources. The rich learning materials made available by the College may include lecture presentations and supporting learning notes, topic discussion chat opportunities, links to videos and web pages, and much more. The use of modern delivery tools has enabled highly effective and creative delivery and discussion opportunities, which learners welcome. The ability of the student learner to be able to access certain learning content at a time and in a location that suits them has proved to be a highly effective learning mechanism, enabling robust reflection and skills embedding in a social context that suits changing lifestyles. The modern learning techniques used by the College enable our student learners to develop a range of life skills alongside their academic business skills.

In addition to utilizing a rich and varied range of delivery techniques, assessment of the program of study and its constituent modules is designed to be an integral part of the learning process for students in order to enhance and confirm their knowledge and practice. In addition to summative assessment, formative feedback is provided to students through a combination of tutor feedback, self-reflection, and peer group feedback. Combined, formative and summative assessments provide a measure of the extent to which students have achieved the learning outcomes of the individual modules.

Assessment

The programme of study utilizes a variety of modern assessment techniques including coursework and examinations. Coursework is typically in the form of essays, reports, or case studies, while group or individual presentations may be required to assess other competencies. Examinations typically take the form of written elements or multiple-choice questions and may be unseen or part-seen, where assessment material is released in advance. The College seeks to offer flexibility in how assessments are undertaken and, where appropriate and pedagogically secure, the programme of study may utilize relevant online tools to deliver assessments. Details of the assessment procedures are given in the individual module specifications. All written assessments are submitted online via the internationally recognized plagiarism software, Turnitin.

Module Teaching and Assessment for all Modules

The module will normally have the following assessment regime:

- Written examination: this will typically account for some 40% of the final grade and takes the form of a written examination under controlled conditions.
- Individual Essay(s): this will typically account for some 40% of the final grade and takes the form of a specialised essay. Students will be required to explore an emerging trend or topic within the theory and practice of the module discipline. This will require an extensive search of the relevant academic and practitioner-based literature and students will need to make reference to both academic and industrial/practitioner sources in their written work.
- Group work: this will typically account for some 20% of the final grade and takes the form of a report. A selection of the groups will be invited to present or pitch at the end of the module to a panel.

All taught modules will be assessed as follows:

- A range of assessment methods appropriate to the subject material being taught will be used to assess the module including, by means of example, written examinations, assignments, individual and group project work, and assessed presentations. The assessment load will be equivalent to some 4,000 words at Level 7.

Module Teaching and Assessment for Dissertation

Each student will be allocated a supervisor who will help them with the development of their project proposal, oversee progress with the project, comment as appropriate on draft materials produced by the student and be available to assist the student with the project, as appropriate.

The dissertation/major project is assessed via the production of a dissertation of some 10,000 to 12,000 words in length.

Where necessary, a viva voce will be conducted in those instances where the provisional mark is considered to be a marginal pass.

To successfully complete the module an overall pass mark of 40% must be achieved.

All assessments will be submitted via the internationally recognised plagiarism software Turnitin.
