Specifically, and having regard to the required knowledge, competencies and skills of programmes delivered at Level 7 of the Malta Qualifications Framework, the College's Masters Suite will help further develop and enhance an individual's: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Business and management acumen; • Confidence and interpersonal skills; • Effective communication and motivational skills; • Organisational and delegation skills; • Forward planning and strategic thinking skills; • Problem-solving, decision-making and innovation skills; • Commercial awareness skills; and,

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • High-level human resource management and mentoring skills. The College's Masters Suite will produce graduates who have the high level knowledge, competencies and skills to succeed in a varied number of professions including, by means of example: Financial Adviser; Management Analyst; Investment Banker; Finance Manager; Marketing Manager; Information Technology Manager; Human Resources Manager; Marketing; Health and Social Care Management; and Business Consultant. The programmes do not lead to a warranted profession or a regulated occupation.
Entry Requirements Overall Description of the Programme Suite	Recognising and wishing to promote the benefits of lifelong learning, the College's entry criteria for its higher education Master's level provision offer a range of entry routes, so that each applicant's certificated academic qualifications, prior learning experience and experiential skills can be taken fully into account when determining whether an offer of a place to study can be made. Prior to entering the Masters Suite with the College, applicants should normally possess: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A good degree from a recognised university institution or equivalent recognised higher education institution. Whilst a degree in a subject broadly related to Business and Management is advantageous, this is not essential. Graduates from subject areas other than Business and Management who want to develop in-depth knowledge and skills in the area of Business and Management may also be appropriate for this programme. The application process will carefully consider the suitability of the student to successfully complete the programme based on the information provided. Where appropriate, a discussion will be held with the applicant to determine their suitability, or • a graduate level professional qualification from a recognised University institution or appropriate comparable recognised higher education institution. A graduate level professional qualification in a subject broadly related to Business and Management is advantageous. The application process will carefully consider the suitability of the student to successfully complete the programme based on the information provided. Where appropriate, a discussion will be held with the applicant to determine their suitability, or • where appropriate, a pre-master's orientation programme approved by Global College Malta. Students who have successfully completed the Global College Pre-Masters programme are guaranteed entry to this Masters suite of programmes. Students whose first Language is not English and who have not previously been exposed to spoken and written English at a reasonably advanced level will normally be required to demonstrate an English competence of at least IELTS 6.0 or equivalent. The College may undertake a video interview with the prospective student to better understand their English proficiency and, where appropriate, may also require a Medium of Instruction certificate from the student's previous

	educational institution. The English language proficiency requirement may be waived if the student is a native speaker of English and they have completed their secondary education in a country where English is the official language or English was the language of instruction where they graduated.
Entry Requirements Overall Description of the Programme Suite	All applicants are strongly encouraged to have two or more years' relevant work experience, although this need not necessarily be continuous, and may have been undertaken on a voluntary or unpaid basis. Prior to entering the College's Executive Master of Business Administration programme of study applicants must be able to demonstrate a minimum of between three and five years of middle to senior management experience in a for profit organisation, the public sector and/or the voluntary sector. All applications for the College's Masters Suite are handled by the College Admissions Team. Where admission decisions cannot be made until a cohort of applications has been received, applicants receive a letter from the Admissions Team, explaining the process to them, indicating the likely period for decision making. Any applicants who do not meet stated entry criteria are approached and asked to demonstrate how they are qualified to undertake their proposed course of study. Applicants wishing to apply for credit exemption have to demonstrate prior achievement of the learning outcomes, or their module and level equivalent. The College considers a wide range of international qualifications other than Maltese qualifications. In doing so, the College is guided by the Malta Qualifications Recognition Information Centre (MQRIC) (https://ncfhe.gov.mt/en/services/Pages/All%20Services/mqric.aspx) in terms of the equivalence awarded to international qualifications. Students whose first Language is not English and who have not previously been exposed to spoken and written English at an advanced level will normally be required to demonstrate an English competence of IELTS 6.0 or equivalent. A Medium of Instruction Certificate for prior certificated learning might additionally be sought from a prospective student. The English language proficiency requirement may be waived if the student is a native speaker of English and they have completed their secondary education in a country where English is the official language or English was the language of instruction where they graduated. Admissions policy and decision-making in respect of individual applications is carefully and routinely overseen by the College's Academic Management Group so as to ensure consistency and equity of practice. Having regard to international practice, the College has recently reviewed and revised its policies and practices with respect to the accreditation of prior learning (certificated, experiential, etc) and these policies will apply, where relevant and appropriate, to prospective entrants to the College's Masters Suite. The College's procedures for the recognition of prior learning, be that certificated or experiential learning, are set out in its Quality and Standards Assurance Manual and accompanying Student Guide on the Recognition of Prior Learning. These RPL procedures have been

	formally approved by the MFHEA (https://gcmalta.com/wp-content/uploads/2022/04/Student-Guide-to-the-Accreditation-of-Prior-Learning-at-Global-College-Malta-as-at-21.03.2022.pdf).
Entry Requirements Overall Description of the Programme Suite	The Global College Malta Masters Suite has been designed to attract high calibre individuals with a first degree from a wide range of academic disciplines. Having careful regard to the level descriptors associated with programmes delivered at Level 7 of the Malta Qualifications Framework, each of the modules in the College’s Masters Suite not only expose students to the various areas of business and management such as accounting, finance, marketing, human resources, operations management, etc, but they also ensure that the student acquires advanced level and current discipline knowledge, skills and competences in these areas. Students who successfully complete the College’s Masters Suite will have advanced level strategic knowledge, insight and understanding to become a successful manager and an inspiring leader. The College’s Masters Suite provides detailed and higher level insights into current business and management thinking, including how to view business challenges from different perspectives. Such approaches give rise to a range of creative solutions as well as giving students the higher level skills and confidence to take a strategic overview of determining business direction and the implementation of strategy. Building on the students’ capacity for creative and innovative thinking, the Masters Suite builds students’ understanding of the core areas of business and management and how they interact and contribute to the success of an organisation. Across the College’s Masters Suite students are actively encouraged to apply high level problem solving skills to various business scenarios and develop the advanced skills to be able to generate alternative strategic options in formulating strategy. The College’s Masters Suite is designed for individuals who have a variety of study motivations ranging from those who might want to change their career, boost their salary, and enhance their career progression potential through to individuals who may want to start their own business or further develop and broaden their existing business and management expertise. The College’s Masters Suite is very clearly designed to prepare graduates for key leadership roles in a variety of organisations. Students following the College’s Masters Suite spend part of their course specifically critically evaluating and applying a range of theories, concepts and models to support the development of strategy, to develop best practice in business design, leadership and implementation via measured change management. Students will recognise that people (employees and stakeholders alike) are fundamental to change processes and should be encouraged to become involved and empowered for successful change to occur. The generic objectives of the College’s Masters Suite are as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • To provide a programme of study that will enable students to fulfil their intellectual, professional and human potential through a transformative educational experience that combines rigorous academic study with immersive exposure to contemporary practice in subjects allied to business and management practice;

- To develop international professionals and leaders with the vision, knowledge, creativity, skills, ethics and entrepreneurial ability necessary to take an integrated, critically aware, dynamic and strategic view of organisations and to make a valuable contribution to both organisations and society;
- To develop analytical abilities, using concepts derived from a wide range of academic disciplines, directed towards problem solving and innovation in business and managerial organisational contexts;
- To instill in successful students a professional mindset characterised by a strong work ethic, desire to excel, creative thinking, social awareness and global outlook with an appreciation of the benefits of lifelong learning;
- To provide students with advanced and applied managerial competencies in a range of sub-disciplines allied to Business and Management; and,
- To develop advanced level business acumen, personal and professional skills, and autonomous learning ability to enhance students' employability on graduation and their life-long career prospects.

The individual programme modules provide more detailed learning objectives in respect of the specific module being studied and should be read in conjunction with the generic programme suite learning objectives provided below.

General Pedagogical methods used for the Programme Suite

The Global College Malta Masters Suite uses a range of teaching methods to suit different learning styles. Typically, the programme of study is delivered through a combination of modern face-to-face lectures, webinars, seminars and discussion forums, tutorials, group work, case studies, guest speakers, organisational visits and independent study.

Delivery of the College's Masters Suite has close regard to the needs of learners. Accordingly, much of the learning is either delivered at times to suit those learners who may have day time employment or child care commitments or made available in a supported teaching format. At all times, the views and needs of students are taken into account. By means of example, theoretical concepts might typically be delivered to students in modern face-to-face lecture formats which may then be further developed through subsequent interactions based around small group seminars, group case study analysis and digital discussions. Modern face-to-face and interactive learning sessions encourage students to critically examine key elements of business and management. In addition to attendance at formal learning sessions, students are expected to undertake independent self-study in order to support their individual learning journeys.

To assist with independent self-study and group work the College provides access to a large number of physical and electronic learning resources. The rich learning materials made available by the College may include lecture presentations and supporting learning notes, topic discussion chat opportunities, links to videos and web pages, and much more. The use of modern delivery tools has enabled highly effective and creative delivery and discussion opportunities, which learners welcome. The ability of the student learner to be able to access certain learning content at a time and in a location that suits them has proved to be a highly effective learning mechanism, enabling robust reflection and skills embedding in a social context that suits changing lifestyles. The modern learning techniques used by the College enables our student learners to develop a range of life skills alongside their academic business skills.

In addition to utilising a rich and varied range of delivery techniques, assessment of the programme of study and its constituent modules is designed to be an integral part of the learning process for students in order to enhance and confirm their knowledge and practice. In addition to summative assessment, formative feedback is provided to students through a combination of tutor feedback, self-reflection and peer group feedback. Combined, formative and summative assessments provide a measure of the extent to which students have achieved the learning outcomes of the individual modules.

The Masters Suite utilises a variety of modern assessment techniques including coursework and examinations. Coursework is typically in the form of essays, reports or case studies, while group or individual presentations may be required to assess other competencies. Examinations typically take the form of written elements or multiple-choice questions and maybe unseen or part-seen, where assessment material is released in advance. The College seeks to offer flexibility in how assessments are undertaken and, where appropriate and pedagogically secure, the programme of study may utilise relevant online tools to deliver assessments. Details of the assessment procedures are given in the individual module specifications. All

	written assessments are submitted online via the internationally recognised plagiarism software, Turnitin.

Module 03
Title of the Module	GCM-M03 Research Methods
Module Description	This module provides students with a detailed and contemporary understanding of qualitative and quantitative research activities, as applied in a business and management context. The module will not only support students prior to commencing their dissertation but also help students to understand how data interpretation can support their role in effectively managing organisations at a senior level. The module is delivered at Level 7 in the Malta Qualifications Framework. Accordingly, the content of this module is specialised and reflects current knowledge in the discipline. Students will be expected to demonstrate critical awareness of knowledge, competency and skills issues relating to the module content, equivalent to MQF Level 7 expectations.
Learning Outcomes	Competences
	Students on the module will be expected to manage and transform work or study contexts that are complex and unpredictable and that may require new strategic approaches. Students will be expected to take responsibility for contributing to professional knowledge and practice and, where appropriate, for reviewing the strategic performance of teams. Directly linked to the Maltese Qualification Framework Level 7 descriptors and required learning outcomes at MQF Level 7, at the end of the module the successful learner will have acquired the responsibility and autonomy equivalent to MQF level 7 to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Be able to monitor complex circumstances within and around an organisation to determine when to recommend research projects be developed and approved; • Be able to authorise the commissioning of appropriately complex organisation-relevant research projects; and, • Be able to manage complex projects if so commissioned by the organisation.
	Knowledge
	Students studying this module will develop a comprehensive knowledge and understanding that is founded upon, and enhances, that knowledge typically associated with study of this discipline as part of an undergraduate level qualification. Students will be expected to apply specialised theoretical and practical knowledge, with some of this knowledge being at the forefront of the discipline. Directly linked to the Maltese Qualification Framework Level 7 descriptors and required learning outcomes at MQF Level 7, at the end of the module the successful learner will have been exposed to the following MQF Level 7 knowledge: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sources and uses of data; • Questionnaire development, analysis and interpretation; • The use of appropriate electronic data collection and analysis applications;

Learning Outcomes	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Probability theory and application; • Descriptive statistics; • Correlation and Regression; • Data analysis topics and tools; • Interviews and interviewing using organisational 'grey' data; and, • Action Research.
	Skills
	Students on the module will be expected to demonstrate specialised problem-solving skills required in research and/or innovation in order to develop new knowledge and procedures. Students will also be expected to be able to demonstrate the ability to integrate knowledge from different fields. Directly linked to the Maltese Qualification Framework Level 7 descriptors and required learning outcomes at MQF Level 7, at the end of the module the successful learner will have acquired the following MQF Level 7 skills: Applying knowledge and understanding <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Be able to demonstrate research and statistical skills to identify appropriate research methods for a Master's level dissertation; • Based on sound research, be able to design the appropriate means of collecting or accessing data from a population or organisation which is of research interest; • Be able to explain, based on critical analysis, why either quantitative or qualitative data collection is appropriate to a specific research project; • Be able to plan the collection of complex data from a relevant research population either through quantitative or qualitative means; • Be able to prepare a detailed research questionnaire and an interview schedule; • Be able to demonstrate comprehension of large scale data sets and their value for research for management and business purposes; and, • Be able to interpret casual relationships and be able to undertake informed forecasting.
	Judgment Skills and Critical Abilities <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Be able to determine what scope of research project is appropriate to the dissertation of a Master's degree; • Be able to critically evaluate the efficacy and quality of a quantitatively-based research report published in an academic journal; and,

Module Teaching	The module will be delivered through a flexible combination of modern face-to-face lectures, webinars, seminars and discussion forums, tutorials, group work, case studies, guest speakers, organisational visits and independent study. Delivery of the module has close regard to the needs of learners. Accordingly, much of the learning is either delivered at times to suit those learners who may have day time employment or child care commitments or made available in a supported teaching format. At all times, the views and needs of students are taken into account. By means of example, theoretical concepts might typically be delivered to students in modern face-to-face lecture formats which may then be further developed through subsequent interactions based around small group seminars, group case study analysis and digital discussions. Modern face-to-face and interactive learning sessions encourage students to critically examine key elements of business and management. In addition to attendance at formal learning sessions, students are expected to undertake independent self-study in order to support their individual learning journeys.
Module Assessment	A range of assessment methods appropriate to the subject material being taught will be used to assess the module including, by means of example, written examinations, assignments, individual and group project work, and assessed presentations. The assessment load will be equivalent to some 4,000 words at Level 7. During the course of the module all students will be given at least one formative feedback or feedforward event. This will be provided during the semester in which the module is taken and in time to be useful in the completion of summative work on the module. Feedback on formative assessed work will typically be provided within 15 working days of submission, or in time to be of use in subsequent assessments within the module. Students will gain feedback on their understanding of any material given to them in the class. Students may, of course, also ask questions in lectures to help them to assess their knowledge. Feedback will comprise verbal feedback on students' questions/group discussion, overall feedback on various aspects of the module, and through written feedback on individual assignments.

Written, summative feedback will be delivered through the coursework grades and the detailed comments provided by the marker(s). Summative marks will be returned on a published timetable, which will be made clear to students on the programme at the start of the academic year.

Students following the module will normally have the following assessment regime:

- Written examination: this will typically account for some 40% of the final grade and takes the form of a written examination under controlled conditions.
- Individual Essay(s): this will typically account for some 40% of the final grade and takes the form of a specialised essay. Students will be required to explore an emerging trend or topic within the theory and practice of the module discipline. This will require an extensive search of the relevant academic and practitioner-based literature and students will need to make reference to both academic and industrial/practitioner sources in their written work.
- Group work: this will typically account for some 20% of the final grade and takes the form of a report. A selection of the groups will be invited to present or pitch at the end of the module to a panel.

To successfully complete the module an overall pass mark of 40% must be achieved.

Reassessment will take place in the same form as above or equivalent.

All assessments will be submitted via the internationally recognised plagiarism software Turnitin.

Learning Outcomes

- Detailed high level insights into managing strategy within the context of different organisational forms and changing environments;
- Detailed understanding of contemporary strategic management challenges faced by organisations in the trading, voluntary and public sectors;
- Understand a complex body of research and study presenting strategy and its management as a blend of prescriptive and analytical tools;
- Detailed knowledge relating to the modeling of strategic analysis, development, and implementation;
- An array of complex contemporary strategic challenges facing a variety of organisations;
- A detailed understanding of organisational Risk Management and the identification, implementation and evaluation of alternative strategies (e.g. GE Matrix); and,
- Be able to initiate and shape effective wide-ranging strategic discussions within complex organisations operating in turbulent environments.

Skills

Students on the module will be expected to demonstrate specialised problem-solving skills required in research and/or innovation in order to develop new knowledge and procedures. Students will also be expected to be able to demonstrate the ability to integrate knowledge from different fields.

Directly linked to the Maltese Qualification Framework Level 7 descriptors and required learning outcomes at MQF Level 7, at the end of the module the successful learner will have acquired the following MQF Level 7 skills:

Applying knowledge and understanding

- Be able to demonstrate a critical awareness of the different forms of strategic analysis that can be applied in various sectors and organisations;
- Be able to demonstrate a critical understanding of both external and internal analysis of a specifically-chosen organisation;
- Based on background research, be able to show how complex strategies can be assessed for different types and scales of organisations within a given sector;
- Be able to choose an appropriate strategy for their organisation based on the environment within which the organisation can be found;
- Be able to plan a detailed strategy for a specific organisation to adapt to a changing business environment based on research about the organisation; and,
- Be able to identify and evaluate detailed strategies to overcome risk.

Judgment Skills and Critical Abilities

- Be able to propose alternative expenditure choices for strategic investments and choose among them demonstrating the research background to this proposal;
- Be able to compare divergent strategies available to an organisation and evaluate the chances of each strategy succeeding;
- Be able to critically evaluate, based on direct research, the strategies pursued by different organisations operating in the same field and sector; and,
- Be able to choose between two alternative strategies where there is a high degree of uncertainty in each instance.

Additional Module-Specific Communication Skills

- Be able to confidently and effectively describe the most appropriate strategy of an organisation to colleagues;
- Be able to present a detailed development strategy for a chosen organisation to grow successfully its activities based on researching the context and capabilities of the organisation;
- Be able to orally present the detailed strategy of a chosen organisation without visual aids; and,
- Be able to prepare a detailed written research report on why a chosen strategy appeared not to be successful.

Additional Module-Specific Learner Skills

- Be able to undertake appropriate continued personal professional development;
- Be able to critically evaluate the appropriate modes of learning for creating a wider team awareness of strategic thinking; and,
- Be able to monitor the strategic implications of practice observed in the everyday management environment and compare these to research findings.

Module-Specific Digital Skills and Competences

- Be able to identify, test and make use of appropriate digital information sources; and,
- Be able to develop their skills in the identification, interpretation and use of digital techniques.

Explain how this module will be taught	The module will be delivered through a flexible combination of modern face-to-face lectures, webinars, seminars and discussion forums, tutorials, group work, case studies, guest speakers, organisational visits and independent study. Delivery of the module has close regard to the needs of learners. Accordingly, much of the learning is either delivered at times to suit those learners who may have day time employment or child care commitments or made available in a supported teaching format. At all times, the views and needs of students are taken into account. By means of example, theoretical concepts might typically be delivered to students in modern face-to-face lecture formats which may then be further developed through subsequent interactions based around small group seminars, group case study analysis and digital discussions. Modern face-to-face and interactive learning sessions encourage students to critically examine key elements of business and management. In addition to attendance at formal learning sessions, students are expected to undertake independent directed self-study in order to support their individual learning journeys. The indicative content for this module covers the following areas: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An introduction to consumer behaviour;

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The psychology of consumer behaviour (including, by means of example, perception, motivation, values, and attitudes); • The concepts of Self, including multiple-selves, extended-self and virtual-selves; • The sociological aspects of consumer behaviour (including, by means of example, income, status, class, education, family structure); • Individual learning and decision-making in the context of consumer behaviour; • The impact of group dynamics, opinion leaders and online communities on consumer behaviour; • Cultural and cross-cultural aspects of consumer behaviour; • Lifestyle and ethics in consumer behaviour; and, • Consumer behaviour in the digital era.
Explain how this particular module will be assessed	A range of assessment methods appropriate to the subject material being taught will be used to assess the module including, by means of example, written examinations, assignments, individual and group project work, and assessed presentations. The assessment load will be equivalent to some 4,000 words at Level 7. During the course of the module all students will be given at least one formative feedback or feedforward event. This will be provided during the semester in which the module is taken and in time to be useful in the completion of summative work on the module. Feedback on formative assessed work will typically be provided within 15 working days of submission, or in time to be of use in subsequent assessments within the module. Students will gain feedback on their understanding of any material given to them in the class. Students may, of course, also ask questions in lectures to help them to assess their knowledge. Feedback will comprise verbal feedback on students' questions/group discussion, overall feedback on various aspects of the module, and through written feedback on individual assignments. Written, summative feedback will be delivered through the coursework grades and the detailed comments provided by the marker(s). Summative marks will be returned on a published timetable, which will be made clear to students on the programme at the start of the academic year. Students following the module will normally have the following assessment regime: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Written examination: this will typically account for some 40% of the final grade and takes the form of a written examination under controlled conditions. - Individual Essay(s): this will typically account for some 40% of the final grade and takes the form of a specialised essay. Module 19
Title of the Module	GCM-M19 Services and Relationship Marketing
Module Description	This module develops an understanding of the particular challenges, opportunities and strategies which are encountered by different types of service business. The module has two distinct elements: services marketing and relationship marketing. The module initially introduces the principles of services marketing. The services sector, such as telecommunications, financial services, hospitality, transportation services, healthcare, and professional services, accounts for over three-quarters of Gross Domestic Product and employment in most developed countries. In light of the growing importance of services in local and global economies, it is important to understand the functionality of service offerings. This module will explore the distinctive characteristics of services and explore how these characteristics affect the marketing approaches used by organisations. The second part of the module explores the principles of relationship marketing combined with the meaning and application of services and relationship marketing across different service contexts. The module will use real-world business scenarios thereby providing students with an opportunity to examine management decision-making and enhancing their study skills, such as independent research, analytical skills, as well as critical thinking. The module will also explore the growing incidence of customer experience design and management. The module is delivered at Level 7 in the Malta Qualifications Framework. Explain how this module will be taught	The module will be delivered through a flexible combination of modern face-to-face lectures, webinars, seminars and discussion forums, tutorials, group work, case studies, guest speakers, organisational visits and independent study. Delivery of the module has close regard to the needs of learners. Accordingly, much of the learning is either delivered at times to suit those learners who may have day time employment or child care commitments or made available in a supported teaching format. At all times, the views and needs of students are taken into account. By means of example, theoretical concepts might typically be delivered to students in modern face-to-face lecture formats which may then be further developed through subsequent interactions based around small group seminars, group case study analysis and digital discussions. Modern face-to-face and interactive learning sessions encourage students to critically examine key elements of business and management. In addition to attendance at formal learning sessions, students are expected to undertake independent directed self-study in order to support their individual learning journeys. The indicative content for this module covers the following areas: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An introduction to Digital Marketing and Social Media; • Strategic models for the Virtual World; • Understanding Online Buyer Behaviour; • Marketing Research and Planning; • The online Marketing Mix; • Relationship technologies in a digital world and customer relationship management; • Communication strategies; • Evaluating digital channel performance; and, • Emerging digital technologies and future prospects.
Explain how this particular module will be assessed	A range of assessment methods appropriate to the subject material being taught will be used to assess the module including, by means of example, written examinations, assignments, individual and group project work, and assessed presentations. The assessment load will be equivalent to some 4,000 words at Level 7.

During the course of the module all students will be given at least one formative feedback or feedforward event. This will be provided during the semester in which the module is taken and in time to be useful in the completion of summative work on the module. Feedback on formative assessed work will typically be provided within 15 working days of submission, or in time to be of use in subsequent assessments within the module. Students will gain feedback on their understanding of any material given to them in the class. Students may, of course, also ask questions in lectures to help them to assess their knowledge. Feedback will comprise verbal feedback on students' questions/group discussion, overall feedback on various aspects of the module, and through written feedback on individual assignments.

Written, summative feedback will be delivered through the coursework grades and the detailed comments provided by the marker(s). Summative marks will be returned on a published timetable, which will be made clear to students on the programme at the start of the academic year.

Students following the module will normally have the following assessment regime:

- Written examination: this will typically account for some 40% of the final grade and takes the form of a written examination under controlled conditions.
- Individual Essay(s): this will typically account for some 40% of the final grade and takes the form of a specialised essay. Students will be required to explore an emerging trend or topic within the theory and practice of the module discipline. This will require an extensive search of the relevant academic and practitioner-based literature and students will need to make reference to both academic and industrial/practitioner sources in their written work.
- Group work: this will typically account for some 20% of the final grade and takes the form of a report. A selection of the groups will be invited to present or pitch at the end of the module to a panel.

To successfully complete the module an overall pass mark of 40% must be achieved.

Reassessment will take place in the same form as above or equivalent.

All assessments will be submitted via the internationally recognised plagiarism software Turnitin.
